

Edited by Peter Washington Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series: A Journey Through Literary History

In a world saturated with noise and distractions, poetry offers a sanctuary for the soul. It transports us to realms of imagination, evokes profound emotions, and challenges our perspectives. The Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series, edited by the renowned scholar Peter Washington, presents a remarkable collection of poetic treasures, spanning centuries and literary movements.

A Journey Through Time

The series opens a window to the Elizabethan era, where the sonnets of William Shakespeare and the lyrics of John Donne explore the complexities of love, loss, and mortality. It then embarks on a chronological journey, showcasing the Romantic effusions of William Wordsworth and Samuel Taylor Coleridge, the Victorian musings of Alfred, Lord Tennyson and Elizabeth Barrett Browning, and the modern masterpieces of T.S. Eliot and W.H. Auden.
